What's new in Elden Ring:

Re: NPD Xbox 360 Hardware Sales Call reveals 41% of Xbox 360s sold in March were bundles The Gamecube sold about 800-900 thousand units by the end of March, and from what I heard, the Gamecube sell was slow in the early part of the year, but it picked up pace with time. Now, the ps3 is not out yet, but I kind of doubt that they'll ship that many units in April, even in Japan, if the price is so high. It's not like you can even enter the country and buy it for that price. As for the Xbox 360, all reports in the news indicate that the 360 is already out everywhere. I just can't believe that they have a huge number shipped in Japan. Like most Japanese before this year, I waited for the price to fall to around or below $200, but apparently we had a high demand. In our house, the 360 sold well, the XBO in Japan did not. Both were gifts. The 360's sales in the States received drop. Somehow, I think that they sell fewer and fewer now in US for Japanese consumers. I really wish that Sony would lower the price of the "pocketable" XBO. It really would limit me from buying it when they drop the price to $299. I missed my chance there and don't want to be in that same situation. I'm all about the price falling from MSFT's $299. Unless they just magically dropped it to $99.... Re: NPD Xbox 360 Hardware Sales Call reveals 41% of Xbox 360s sold in March were bundles I would certainly be interested in that 35-39% I was reading a while back of boxed as opposed to digital.

Notwithstanding the original 36% in January, the Xbox has received about 40-42% for the first 4 months of availability of the system in the USA. I am certain that there will be a considerably higher percentage for Japan (and other countries), as there is in the US and other countries. So far no accurate reports on the percentage of Xbox sales as part of entertainment bundles that I have seen, but some of the reports are not the best. What do you think about the average sales as a percentage of entertainment racks? If it falls to the lower 30-35% in Japan like in the USA, the PS3 will end up with the majority of the market in Japan.

Q: Ant - tasks requiring java classpath If I have a java class in a project with following classpath: /Users/User/eclipse/MockTasks/MockTasks/lib/org.mockito.Mockito.jar If I try to call any of mockito's methods from an ant build, I'm getting following exception: e.g. java.lang.NoClassDefFoundError: org/mockito/internal/util/creation. I found out that ant has its own property, java.class.path, so can I use that and expect ant to search this jar file? A: Yep, use the ant task to load the jar in as a provider of the mockito factory. From the docs: EDIT: or just load the jar at runtime... import org.mockito.Mockito; ... Class.forName("org.mockito.Mockito"); (here's a similar question & answer) A: Try this: Q: Expression Engine, Visitor Builder and FrontPage I've just spent the last week learning Expression Engine, especially how to work with the Content Visitor (in particular the Visitor Builder). I've also learned how to format a member profile's navbars, so that when the user is logged in, it's normal navigation bar. But I'm having trouble when I'm using Expression Engine's frontpage (including the native templates and modules) and using the Visitor Builder. When I generate the navbar, I get the format of both the logged in and logged out navbars. I use this code for the logged in and logged out

System Requirements For Elden Ring:

The Ultimate Werewolf is not a simple game; it is a sophisticated board game with a rich and deep storytelling experience. You'll need at least a modest graphics card, an able processor, and a decent number of megabytes of memory in order to play it at maximum quality. Although you may not be required to have a recent 3D card or a dedicated video processing unit, the better your graphics card, the smoother and more lifelike your gameplay experience will be. The game is optimized for Windows 7 and Windows 8. The "dynamic list" is a Windows 8 only
